1. In this case, the petitioner has challenged the action of the respondents in not permitting the students of the petitioner to appear for the examination. While granting rule, the interim relief was also granted and the students of the petitioner were permitted to appear in the examination. This was done in March, 1997. The petition is, therefore, rendered infructuous as it is worked out by the interim order itself. However, we make it clear that merely because the petition is disposed of, no action against the petitioner be taken. The petition, accordingly, disposed of.
